

Merry Christmas and a Joyous and Prosperous New Year to All Is the Sincere Wish of The Times

Hockey League Organized

La Palmas Played on Wetaskiwin Ice Christmas Day.
Line-Up of Season.

A meeting was called by Convenor McLean of the Alberta Hockey Association on Wednesday evening at Killam. The delegates present were: Convenor McLean; Sedgewick, Wild, McKelvey; Killam, Barnes, Duggan, Strone, Hyman, Spruhan; Camrose Pierce Watt; Wetaskiwin delegates missed. Wetaskiwin delegates missed. Wetaskiwin delegates missed.

All teams favored the organization of a league except Strone. Strone decided to go in the league if they were put in eastern division of Wetaskiwin. Hardly any group.

Moved by Hyman, that this group be divided into two divisions, composed of Wetaskiwin, Camrose (western division) playing a double schedule and Strone, Killam and Sedgewick (eastern division) playing single schedule, winners playing off goals to count in home and home games.

Amendment by Pierce, that division be Wetaskiwin, Camrose and Strone (western division) Killam and Sedgewick (eastern division). Amendment lost. Killam, Strone and Sedgewick voting against motion carried. This group must have their schedule finished by February 1st, winners to go into other group to play for Alberta intermediate championship.

It was decided to name two referees on each club to be handed to convenor, selection from these to be official referees in the group.

Schedule for eastern division drawn as follows:

- Jan. 2-Sedgewick at Strone.
- 6-Strone at Killam.
- 9-Killam at Sedgewick.
- 13-Sedgewick at Killam.
- 16-Killam at Strone.
- 20-Strone at Sedgewick.

Dates to be arranged later for western division.

SHARE YOUR FORTUNE

Amid all the happiness and joys of the merry Christmas season, think of those less fortunate—of those on whom the sun of plenty has failed to shine during the past twelve months. Think of the heart-aches that will be theirs on Christmas morning, think of the tear-stained eyes of the little child crying because Santa Claus could not call at their homes. Half of your pleasure at Christmas will be derived from making others happy. From sharing your good fortune and happy moods at kindness wherever you happen to be on Christmas Day. Give something, be it ever so trifling, to the little child to whom Christmas otherwise would mean nothing. You can keep tears of sorrow from your eyes and brighten the day of a hundred-fold yourself. Try it.

GOVERNMENT GIVES NO AID TO SUFFERERS

Wainwright, Alta., Dec. 22.—The committee of the farmers from the extensive district south of Wainwright, whose crops were ruined by late August, which was to Calgary, and petitioned Dr. Roche, minister of the interior, for relief, has received a communicating reply by J. Bruce Walker, commissioner of emigration, informing them that nothing would be done.

The commissioner wrote that the government would supply the palmed-out farmers with seed grain to cover their losses, provided the farmers occupied unpatented lands, the department taking a lien upon such land as security for the loan.

As few if any of the farmers who suffered from the hail are taxpayers, the offer of the government amounts to nothing.

The Real Christmas Spirit

Let Your Holiday Giving Extend Beyond the Walls of Your Own Home.

Christmas is not a season primarily spent for the exchange of gifts and selfish enjoyment, but one in which the desire of doing something for others should reign pre-eminent. Let us get out of ourselves, out of the rut and be motivated by the best spirit of the festival. It is the real recognition we can make of the abundance which has been bestowed upon us, of the plentiful harvest, of the right future held out. Here in Wetaskiwin, where there is no destitution, no poverty, no orphans' as yet, and where the spirit of giving is kept going by charitable deeds, it is easy to fall into a self-satisfied way of observing Christmas.

But there are institutions that you can help, there are altruistic objects on which your money may be well spent.

Alight to the public hospital for the exchange of gifts and selfish enjoyment, but one in which the desire of doing something for others should reign pre-eminent. Let us get out of ourselves, out of the rut and be motivated by the best spirit of the festival. It is the real recognition we can make of the abundance which has been bestowed upon us, of the plentiful harvest, of the right future held out. Here in Wetaskiwin, where there is no destitution, no poverty, no orphans' as yet, and where the spirit of giving is kept going by charitable deeds, it is easy to fall into a self-satisfied way of observing Christmas.

A BIT OF HUMAN NATURE.

Now a "Heart Throb Specialist" Get Her First Job.

In the Woman's Home Companion appears a confession of a "heart throb specialist"—a newspaper woman who after many failures made a success in New York. Following is her own story of her first success:

"I had dropped into a criminal courtroom principally to escape the heat of the street. A young girl was being tried for attempted suicide. Perhaps I could read real drama between the fluttering lines of her testimony."

"Here was an old story to the reporters. I knew they would turn in brief items, bare facts. I talked about the girl with the probation officer assigned to the case, with the girl, with her employers, and I secured photographs, including one of the corner where she tried to end it all, a enjoyable much like my own. Then I wrote as if her story were mine."

"With the power born of desperation I forced my way into the presence of a Sunday editor who had spoken a few kind words to me. I begged him to read my story while the girl's case was still in the public eye."

"For a wonder he did read it while I sat beside him. When he finished he touched several buttons, and men fairly tumbled into the room."

"After giving them orders he seemed to recall my existence. He turned and stared at me over his glasses."

"Let's see. You've been in here before, haven't you?"

"Yes. I brought you a letter from Mr. Blank of the News."

"Humph! A story like that is worth thirty letters of introduction. Can't furnish substance letters are. Don't believe in 'em. Said much stuff?"

"Nothing, unless you have bought that story."

"His eyes twinkled."

"Oh, I've bought it all right. I forgot to mention we pay $50 for a story like that with the pictures. I suppose that is all right?"

"All right?"

"I closed my eyes. I saw a clean hall room, with a real window ledge over which I could look out upon a quiet city garden. I saw a telegraph operator clicking off a message to an anxious mother. And I tasted beefsteak—thick, juicy, rare!"

"When I opened my eyes once more the Sunday editor was at the door. He hung his order over his shoulder:

"Wait till I come back."

"In a few minutes he was seated beside me again, and I could hardly believe my ears. He was offering me a position on the staff!"

"Expatriated by Mal de Mer."

There is tragedy in the attempts made to solve the problem of seasickness by the late Mr. William Louis Williams, the millionaire, who was an involuntary exile in England for the last twenty-seven years of his life. He was at heart an American citizen, but his doctors warned him that a voyage across the Atlantic, with the probability of seasickness, would be fatal to him. So he devoted the rest of his life to designing a vessel in which he could safely travel to America. But the fates were against him, and his invention never got further than the shelves of the patent office—London Opinion.

A Tiny Death Dealer.

A most astounding death is caused by an insect half the size of a pea—a small black spider. It lives in Peru, in South America. This spider's venom scorches up the blood vessels and spreads through all the tissues, causing the most fearful agony a human being can have to bear. The worst of it is that the victim lives at least two days, enduring unthinkable anguish the whole time. The spider is luckily not common. It is known as the "wee-wee," and when a man who knows what the bite means is bitten he generally blows out his brains.

A Proper End.

Elizabeth was taken to hear grand opera for the first time. Her musical education before this coronation had been confined chiefly to park concerts, whereof she knew the proper observances.

The performance was a masterpiece of "Koenigslieder." It was ended, and mamma rose to go.

"Is that the end?" asked Elizabeth.

"Yes, dear," answered mamma.

"Sit down, mamma, please," said Elizabeth. "It can't be. They have just played 'America' yet!"—New York Post.

Great Yarmouth's Rows.

The rows of Great Yarmouth are worth seeing. There are 100 rows all together—narrow thoroughfares which connect the main streets, with houses on each side. They are from three to six feet wide. Special carts have to be built to traverse these rows.—London Mail.

Penetrating a Dialogue.

"What are you doing in this sort of costume plates and reference books?" asked the old friend.

"Merely satisfying an idle curiosity," replied Mr. Curmuzzo. "I'm trying to find out who was at my wife's recent costume ball."—Washington Star.

Almost an Insult.

Press Agent—Miss De Star, I'm going to work up a story that you, per Pomeranian pondie swallowed all your diamonds. Miss De Star Who, sir, do you think I want people to think I have only enough diamonds to fill a pondie?—Chicago News.

Our donkeys are traitors and make us lose the good we do with them by fearing to attempt.—Shakespeare.

BE A FOE TO FEAR.

It Never Won a Cause or a Battle Nor Built a Railroad.

Was anything ever done by one who was afraid?

Would Columbus have made his discovery of the new world if he had been afraid of the Indians?

Would the greatest ever have been made if he had been afraid of the remotest parts of the world in the missionary had feared his mission?

Would there have been a United States if the signers of the Declaration of Independence had feared for their lives, as well they might?

Would the railroads have crossed the continent and plowed the desert and would our captains of industry have laid the course of their courtesies in building our industries—the wonder of the world for size, output and wages—if they had been timid while riding railroads?

Was a battle ever won by a general who feared?

Was ever a great cause advanced by one without a strong heart and undying hope? Was ever a prize secured by a competitor who did not enter the race believing he must and would win?

Is anything more contemptible than cowardice? Is anything more noble than courage? Is anything more childish than fear of anything or anybody? Is confidence in an age of unrest, unrest, suspicion and disturbance?

Let us turn from the dismal swamps of fear and let us turn to the hills. Let hope inspire and courage strengthen and the battle will be won.

This is the lesson to teach the children in our schools, to tell to the student toiler at his work, to speak to the anxious business man at his desk, to impress upon the preacher in his pulpit and the counselor in the hall of legislation.

And faint heart never won fair lady. —John A. Slesinger in Leslie's.

WIFE DESSERTS GETS YEAR IN JAIL AND FINE OF $500

Edmonton, Dec. 18.—Arthur L. Lucas, the magistrate at Clyde, imposed a sentence under a new amendment to the criminal code upon a man who deserted his wife and family, which is likely to strike a note of warning which will put an end to what the Mounted Police describe as an offence which is being all too common in the province.

Mr. Lucas has imposed a sentence of one of 1000 together with a year's imprisonment upon Joseph Jerome for deserting his wife and four children.

The case is described as being particularly cruel. The man squatted on a quarter in a timber reserve near Holmes Crossing. He left his family there last May, leaving a 22 rifle, a few bridges, and telling his wife, that she must provide for herself and his children. She had no food or provision, nothing but the rifle and cartridges.

The family became destitute in a very short time. The few neighbors heard of this and gave what assistance they could. "The family had actually been starved, having lived only on what game that was shot by the wife. She made clothes for the children out of some old flour and oatmeal sacks. The people of the district pushed the matter. They had Jerome found and overruled made him to deal decently with his family.

He responded by sending his wife a box of 22 cartridges, with the information that she could get along with them. Also he told her that there was no use sending the Mounted Police after him, for they could never arrest him.

The case became so disgraceful that the police arrested Jerome at Vermilion. He was taken to Clyde for trial and as the new amendment to the criminal code provides for a summary hearing Mr. Lucas and Mrs. Holmes, sitting as the court, imposed the sentence of the $500 fine and a year's imprisonment.

Edmonton, Dec. 17.—Eight thousand dollars for silver fox pelts was the price paid yesterday by J. Hamilton, Levinson, the fur buyers of McDougall avenue, to two men came down from the north, W. Hogue and J. W. Haer, of it of the province.

"THE BIG STORE"

WETASKIWIN,

ALBERTA

SANTA CLAUS'S DEPUTY

The midnight hour, by all the clocks, was struck, and I arose, to tell the sleeping children's socks with toys and things like those. My wife in tragic tones, exclaimed, "Now get things right fixed! Last Christmas I was badly shamed, the way you got things mixed; for Ann got Freddie's rubber ball, which made them both complain, and Willie got the speaking doll that should have gone to Jane. I hope that you will use your head about these Christmas chores, and when you do come back to bed, please try to cure the sore." "The house was cold and densely dark as I went on my way, with hobby horse and Noah's ark and treasures from Calvary. I knew just where the stockings lay, stored in the sitting room, and thought that I could find my way in any sort of gloom, but the furniture had moved from its accustomed places, and I was bewildered and groped my way up and hit my face. A lounge that always hitherto had stood against the wall, showed all the writhing tangles of the stockings. I took a step, and down I went. I rose, with forehead cold and damp and life seemed bleak and drab, and then the blessed old hanging lamp got in a short arm jab. It gave me an armpit pat, there in the elbowing dark, and I sat down again in haste upon the Noah's ark. Angels, I thought, I arose, and then the bookcase came and lifted me once across the nose and climbed upon my frame. Though somewhat dazed, I said, "This stunt I once more will begin," and then the stove came up in front and kicked me on the shin. At last I found the socks: in these I placed the books, toys and hoped the wreckage still might please the little girls and boys.

At morning while in bed I lay, all mangled, bruised and torn, I heard my eldest, Willie, say, in tones of bitter scorn, "Oh, no, he don't let Santa Claus come to this house again! He is the worst that ever was—his vulgar and profane! Last night I lay awake in bed and heard him say, 'I told, and nearly everything he said was over-top and spoiled.' But why does father not come to see my railway train?" And then she began, "Your father heard that rule—old say that storm and aways—she tried to drive the man away, and tumbled down the stairs."

Christmas is the same this year, last year and all the years before. It is old, yet 'tis new. It is a thing of the past, of the present and will be of the future until time immemorial. Who is there among us too old to remember the Christmas of his childhood? Is there one who does not look back upon it as the happiest day of his life?

HORSE THIEVES IN

STETTLET DISTRICT

A band of horse thieves are at work in the district north of Montreal and Veteran, and ranchers up in that district have reported to the mounted police that they have altogether "lost" over thirty head of horses. Yesterday fifteen of these were recovered near Montreal. They had been sold to farmers in the district, and it is thought that the others have been disposed of in the same way and will be recovered.

The farmers, who purchased the horses said they were driven to that district by three men, who came from the north. These men said the horses were for sale, and the figure asked was such that they had not much difficulty in disposing of them. Several hold-ups have also been reported in that district, and it is thought that the horse thieves are also responsible for these. On Wednesday night, two brothers, named Smith, were driving some little way out of the town of Veteran when they were held up by three masked men. The point of revolvers, and told to hand over their valuables. The men gave their pocketbooks containing in the neighborhood of $200. They reported the matter to the police, and although they did not notice the features of the men, it is thought that the perpetrators were the horse thieves.

AN ART PIANT.

He Deserved It. After He Got With So M. ...
There is an interesting tale of an elephant's artistry, told by Mrs. A. M. Handley in "Roughing It in Southern India."
"One very bright moonlight evening while camping on the Brahmagiri we were sitting out in the cool air after dinner when one of the elephants somehow contrived to unhook his self and walked away from his quarters into ours. We saw him go up to a sleeping native, snuff at his pillow and then ever so gently draw it away with his trunk. At the same time he edged his own foot under the man's head and shoulders that no jerk might be felt.
The pillow was a bag of rice, put there for safety against thieves. Although tied up in a knot, the bag was deftly opened and its contents devoured the very last grain, the thief looking wistfully round him the while.
"We were not likely to disappoint him of his evening feast, as he seemed to hunger, for, just letting his big eyes rest on us unconcernedly for a second or two, he fell to considering his next move.
"He drew a stone toward him with the ever handy trunk and put it under the empty sack. Then he worked both together under the man's head. Finally he stealthily withdrew his own foot, and having waited no longer than was necessary to make sure he had left all safe, he moved off."

MOOSE BEASON CLOSED
The season for shooting moose and caribou closed December 14. There have been a great many moose and caribou shot in the region around Athabasca during the open season. Great quantities of the meat have been brought to town and sold, and shipped. Every day there is some one with a moose head for sale for a moose. The housewives, too, have availed themselves of the open season as well as hunters and trappers and incoming sportsmen from the cities to our south. To some it might seem like a waste to kill the animals, but when it is remembered that hundreds of people are getting their seasons' supply of meat in just this way, we concede that it is for a very worth cause.—Northern News.

ON THE BRINK OF NIAGARA.

Three Hours of Peril, but He Still Clutched His Knife.
On the afternoon of June 1, 1872, an old painter named William McCollough while painting the bridge above Niagara falls between the first and second Sister Islands fell into the rapids. Instantly he was swept furiously toward the extract, but he clung to a lesser wave, so that he struck against and seized a rock not far above the brink.
Hundreds quickly gathered on the shore and watched, all eager to help, but ignorant what to do. Among them was Thomas Conroy, who secured a coil of rope, fastened one end to a tree on shore and with the other end in his hand waded out as far as he could and occasionally swung the water being from eighteen inches to six feet deep.
"He aimed far up stream to allow for the power of the current and at last with great difficulty reached the unfortunate painter and bound him to himself with the rope. They were swept off their feet several times on the way back to shore, but the rope had been firmly fastened, and they finally landed safely.
When they reached shore it was found that McCollough still clutched his putty knife firmly in his hand, having held it during the three hours he had been on the brink of the falls.

Down in the Depths.
The mermaid was ill. She sat leaning against a rock, unworldly of the sand that was settling on her beautiful tail. In fact, she was too far gone to care about anything.

Later, when Father Neptune came along to inquire how she felt, she cheered up a little.
"Oh, Father Neptune," she cried, "could you not slip up and ask the people on the beach if there is a doctor amongst them?"
Neptune, only too glad to be of use, departed and was seen returning with a young man of professional appearance.

The young man presented his card to the mermaid, smiled, read it and—fainted.
He was a chiroprapist—London Answers.

Serious Harm From Noise.
Investigations made by physicians prove that there is appreciable harm from noise, and serious harm too. It is no doubt true that a normal nervous system can apparently adjust itself to all sorts of adverse circumstances. We couldn't exist otherwise. Nevertheless the continual against make an impression and, like water dripping on a stone, can overcome resistance in time. These investigations have found many in the most nervous conditions in those who have long been immersed in loud noise utterly unaware that any harm was being done.—London Tit-Bits.

Easily Recognized.
"That man sitting in the back seat is the one who owns the automobile."
"Why, he is the only man in the party who doesn't seem to be having a good time."
"That's how I know. He's thinking about tires, gasoline and speed limit fines."—Washington Star.

The New and the Old.
"I congratulate you on having been knighted. Mr. von Meppen is a mighty pleasant experience, isn't it?"
"Don't talk, Baron. To you it is much pleasanter that it wasn't you, but one of your investors who had that experience some 500 years ago."—Megeendorfer Blatter.

The Other Way.
She told husband who feels seasick seas coming on—Can I get you anything, dear? He—No. Just tell me how to keep what I've got.—Boston Transcript.

Heroic.
Gladys—Oh, Bert, I wonder if there are any staircases in this cave? Bert—Well, if there are, haven't I got this stick to defend you with?—London Punch.

Calgary, Dec. 23.—The feasibility of developing 40,000 continuous horsepower within fifty miles of Calgary was reported on at the annual meeting of the Industrial Bureau last night. The government engineers have passed upon the project, and from which the surveyors and the municipal authorities consider the acquisition of the power rights and the construction of four generating plants within the next 18 months.

A CHRISTMAS LEGEND

There is a little legend which Orient nations tell. That when the earth is joyous With song of Christmas ball, Unseen the Christ-Child wanders Among the suffering dumb And brings them joyful tidings Of kinder years to come.
For was he not once sheltered With cattle of the stall? And does he not remember Earth's helpless creatures all? And did the star not beckon Above them on that night, Instead of o'er palace A flame with gorgeous light?

A total capitalization of $2,500,000 is reported in the incorporation of companies gazetted in the Alberta Gazette of December 15. Of this amount almost half is represented in the capital of the Battle River Collieries, capitalized at one million dollars, whose head office is at Rosebush. This company, of which A. S. Rosebush is president, has been operating for some years with great success, and the present incorporation is the result of their development during that time. Bulletin.

The parcels post system in the United States has cut so deeply into the express companies profits that one of them has been forced to reduce its dividend rate. That will not turn the Canadian people against the project for establishing a parcels post system in Canada.
